

THE WORLD ENVIRONMENT DAY OF 2000

For the world environment day of 2000, the Junta de Extremadura published a very curious poster.

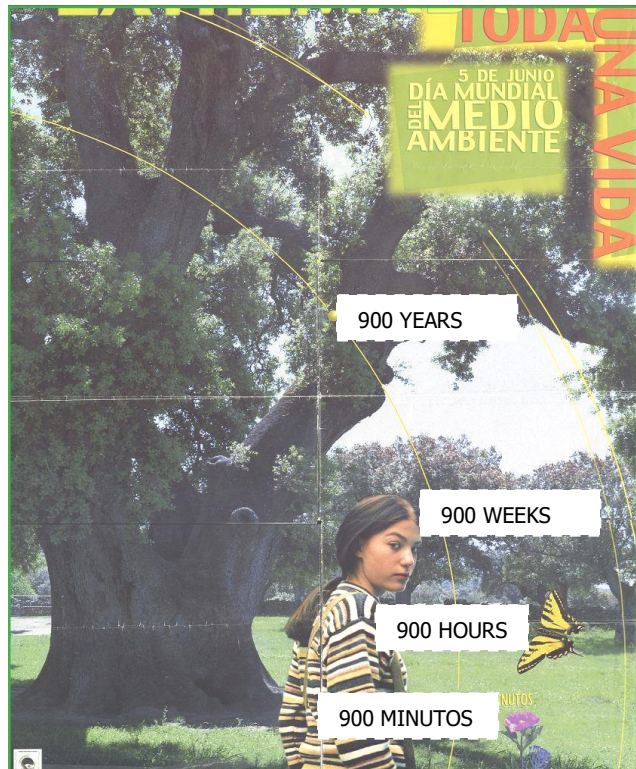

You can see four different objects on the poster.

The biggest is an enormous tree called 'La Terrona'; it is in Zarza de Montánchez. People say that this is a centenary tree with a huge perimeter. It is necessary to have about five people with their arms extended to surround the trunk. The tree is 9 hundred years old.

The next being is a pretty girl who is 8 hundred weeks old. The next is a curious butterfly which is 9 hundred hours old. And finally, there is a fragile flower which is only 9 hundred minutes old.

Everybody is 9 hundred but in a different way, in a different unit of measure.

The arc is a symbol to show that all living things are related. We share a life with many different features but they are always beautiful.
